

ASHE NORTH-CENTRAL NJ SECTION PRESENTS:

Engineering Ethics

Presented by:

Gunther O. Carrle, Esq. –

General Counsel Professional Services for McCormick Taylor, Inc

Anthony S. Potter, Esq. –

Principal Attorney Offit Kurman Construction Law Practice Group

This session focuses on engineering ethics for transportation professionals. The session will provide an overview of core ethical principles, identify ethical issues, creating a framework for resolving common ethical dilemmas and existing enforcement mechanisms. While the short format does not allow for a typical workshop session to be presented using a case study teaching methodology, we will summarize several ethical challenges practitioners face to illustrate ethical components in a real-world environment. Potential ethical and conflict situations will be drawn from transportation and consulting engineering scenarios to demonstrate such vital components as protecting public health, safety, and welfare, duties to clients, conflicts of interest, areas of competency, and avoiding deceptive acts. We will compare the Code of Ethics published by professional associations, review Licensing Laws and Regulations and focus on common and some not so common statutory and regulatory provisions from the region, including Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey, New York, and Pennsylvania. This presentation satisfies the New Jersey and New York 2-hour ethics requirement for Professional Engineer licensure renewal.
